

SOMEWHAT LOCAL.

—Nathan Middleton, who was shot by Roe Anderson, at Lancaster, died of his injuries.

—The Central University 11 bested the Kentucky University at Richmond Saturday 32 to 6.

—At Somerset J. P. Haley & Son, merchants engaged in the dry goods, boots and shoes, made a general assignment for the benefit of creditors.

—A dispatch sent from Richmond says that while escorting his sweetheart home, Edgar Gooch, of Bee Lick, was thrown from his horse against a tree, breaking his thigh, dislocating his shoulder and otherwise injuring him.

—The deputy collector of internal revenue at Lawrenceburg took in $113,404.16 during October, which is $30,000 in excess of any amount collected at that place for more than two years and $33,000 more than September.

—A McKinney dispatch says that J. M. Adams got drunk in Palaski county and attempted to ride horseback, but fell off and was picked up dead. His brother Bill, shot and killed Ike Moore there 10 years ago, for which he served a term in the penitentiary. Ike was afterwards shot and killed on top of a freight car near Mt. Vernon.

—Mrs. Adeline Hancock, the oldest and one of the most interesting personages in Mercer county, died Friday night. She was born in Virginia, on Christmas day, 1793, and had lived near Harrodsburg for 90 years. She was an inveterate smoker, and smoked a few moments before passing away. But for the senseless habit she might have lived to a ripe old age.

—Capt. Henry S. Wygant, whom Stanford people will remember most pleasantly, has resigned as commandant of the military department of Central University and will shortly return to his old regiment, the 24th Infantry, U. S. A., at Salt Lake City Utah. His resignation was the outgrowth of the middle caused by the insubordination of a member of the battalion. The Register prints a picture of him and a highly eulogistic article on his standing as an officer and a gentleman.

—There was an altercation at Richmond Friday between Hons: Tait Burnam and W. T. Tevis, of the collector's office. Tevis, who had heard that Burnam had said that no matter who was elected he (Tevis) would have to walk the plank, stepped up and asked Burnam in regard to the statement. Burnam replied that it was false, whereupon Tevis called him a d—n liar. Friends prevented a clash then. Later they met when Tevis attacked Burnam, who, after the first onset, had the advantage over his assailant, who is a much smaller man, dealing him several vicious blows in the face with his fist, which caused the blood to flow freely. At this juncture friends separated the combatants and prevented further trouble.

IN MEMORY OF LITTLE EFFIE DUNN.

On the 20th of October, 1896, at her home in Garrard county, the pure, sweet spirit of our dear little Effie, only daughter of I. M. and Lucy Dunn, passed away from earth to heaven. At the solemn hour of midnight an angel was sent to gather jewels for the Master's use. When we enter a garden to pluck flowers for our earthly friends we always gather the best; so it was when the angel entered the home of these dear ones, he took the fairest of the little band, dear Effie, and transported from this chilly clime our little bud as a sweet flower to bloom in the Paradise of God. It is no wonder that the earthly home is shadowed, for one fair bud has been taken by the King. The circle at home is crushed and disappointed. We knew this bright, fairy child and longed to watch this bud of three short years unfold. This is the first bereavement in the home. It seems hard to know we will never hear the prattle of her little voice. Such devotion of brothers is seldom seen. They made her the pet of the household. So sweet and winning were her ways that all loved her. Now her little chair is empty and her toys laid away. The little brothers stand aside and wonder why mama and papas seem so sad. It is so hard to say: "Thy will not mine be done," and bow in humble submission to Him who doeth all things well. Effie, sweet child, now rests with Him who said: "Suffer little children to come unto me," so parents, this priceless treasure was only entrusted to your keeping for a little while. Your earthly chain of love has now a golden link in Heaven, where day by day it is drawing you to an everlasting reunion. She can not come to us, but we all can go to her. Now stricken father and mother, look up through tears of sorrow and think of your little Effie as a jewel too pure for earth.

"Ere sin could blight or sorrow fade,
Death came with friendly care,
The opening bud to Heaven conveyed
And bade it blossom there."

A FRIEND.

Lancaster, Ky., Nov. 2, 1896.

—After to-day Mr. McKinley can resume his normal condition as a free silversmith. Mark Hanna and the gold bugs will be through with him.

LANCASTER, GARRARD COUNTY.

—A republican, who is running for an important office, was asked if a certain man was in town, when he, very learnedly, replied "I don't think he has come. I taken supper at the Mason tavern and he wasn't there." This is an unusual manner of expression, but everybody knows what he meant.

—Knowing democrats here, claim that Bryan will carry Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and possibly Ohio. At any rate he is expected to win by a good majority. A bookmaker will make bets: First $100 that Thompson will win; second $100 that Bryan will be elected, and $200 that Bryan will carry Kentucky.

—The many friends of Judge R. A. Burnside, in this and adjoining counties, will be glad to learn that he is able to walk about his room, and is sure to recover from the wounds received Sept. 9, when the colored man, Knox, was killed by J. I. Hamilton. He has suffered intensely and, for weeks, his recovery was thought to be impossible.

—Nothing remains but to deposit the ballots, and your correspondent appeals to those, who are talking of going astray, to remember the struggles we have had against the common enemy, and not to give them a helping hand, when their votes are needed in the cause of humanity, immutable right and eternal justice. Do not ignore the many fixed principles, for which we have fought, to gratify a single principle which you may advocate. Beware of the result.

—To-day (Monday) is a general rally day, with both democrats and republicans. Gov. Bradley and several other republicans will speak. Gen. Hardin was billed for a speech, without any intention to conflict with the governor, but will follow him, as he was billed after the governor, and the other parties still later. The attempt to create the impression that Hardin was billed to cause a disturbance, and as a thrust at the governor, is false, as the State committee made the appointment, among others, without knowing of the Bradley appointment, and even if it were known, it seems that we have a right to be heard.

MRS. HENRY'S MAGNIFICENT APPEAL.

DANVILLE, NOV. 2. —Mrs. Josephine K. Henry's speech at the Opera House here Saturday night was a thrilling close of the democratic campaign in Boyle. Mrs. Henry's reception on her entry was an ovation that would have inspired an ascetic. The intelligence and culture of Danville and her neighbors within a radius of 20 miles jammed the building beyond the capacity of the conventional omnibus to afford room for one more. Such enthusiasm and decorum were never in evidence before at a political gathering here. Mrs. Henry is a petite woman of 90 pounds, the first of her sex that a majority of her hearers ever heard essay the entertainment and enlightenment of an audience with a public speech, and that the compass of her voice was to the full measure of the room is a marvel. How long she spoke I have yet to hear an estimate offered and her every intimation of closing was met with a demand to "Go on—go on all night!" Your scribe will not attempt a report of the speech. Conservative and competent auditors pronounce hers the most versatile, comprehensive, logical and convincing presentation of the democratic cause heard during this campaign. The exhaustive research and familiarity with political history manifested in a clear, modest, convincing and superlatively eloquent diction, absolutely devoid of demagoguery, would be wonderful in an accredited professional politician. But two or three times was the crowd impelled to applause by chaste and caustic wit. The appeals were to reason, patriotism and philanthropy. After courteous and anxious inspection of the gaudy flowers of a conservatory to find a diminutive lily the source of a ravishing perfume, is less surprising than that so small and fragile a casket should be the repository of such a versatile mind and all inclusive heart. To meet and hear is to unreservedly accord that incomparable woman, Josephine K. Henry, an admiration little less than worship.

T. B. M.

—Margaret Ingels made a speech for Bryan at Mt. Sterling and the old veterans went as wild as the youths, Judge Peters saying: "Miss Ingels, I am 91 years old; voted for Jackson in the twenties and have heard Henry, Clay, the Menifees, Marshalls and Breckinridges, but yours is the grandest speech I have ever listened to."

—Mrs. Henry, the woman orator, had more than 2,000 hearers at Lexington. She was bitter in her remarks concerning Breckinridge, whom she beseeched the voters to defeat and thus protect the honor of women and place a stigma on him, who has done so much to degrade them.

—For the sake of the gold standard the boltercats are willing to swallow McKinley and his high tariff and his force bill ideas and all the other iniquitous measures that he favors. And yet those men pretend to have been democrats once.—Hopkinsville New Era.

LITTLE PATTIE PERKINS.

"Could we push ajar the gate of life,
And stand within and all God's workings see."

We might realize why the angel of death is so busy in our midst, bending over our homes in the silent watches of the night, hovering over households, even as the sunshine flits merrily on, plucking here a lovely bud and there a full-grown flower, leaving our once joyous firesides so sad and desolate.

Our recent sad and frequent visitations truly convince us that neither beauty, youth, nor age, can arrest the blighting touch of the relentless reaper.

Bleeding hearts now lovingly yearn over the sudden taking away on the night of Oct. 23, of the dear little sunbeam, Pattie Perkins, the idol, not only of the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Perkins, but the universal favorite of the town. Every one knew little Pattie, and to know her was to love her, for how truly beautiful was her precious little life—grace, innocence, purity itself, almost divinity clothed in flesh, so precious indeed, her loving Savior thought best to remove her to His own fair habitation, ere the corroding touches of time could mar that angelic brow.

Her mamma told her she was going to die and asked her if she was afraid. With loving caresses, from her dear little hands, and comforting words from dear little lips, upon which the death seal was already fixed, she softly whispered, "Pattie is all right, come go with me, mamma."

The cold, beautiful casket of clay now rests upon the cemetery hill, but the precious jewel it contained is a brilliant diadem in the coronal of God. Mourn not dear weeping ones for sweet little Pattie is on those beautiful "hills of jasper," of which she loved to sing, and is enjoying new beauties and pleasures that this world can never give. Look up and listen, as she, with soft, silvery, quivering chords upon her angelic harp, sings of that happy "Beyond," and beckons still with loving little hands to come and be with Pattie, safe in the arms of Jesus. The bereaved family have the deepest sympathy of their many friends.

WHAT WE CLAIM.

WHAT WE CLAIM.—In stating to the public our claims in regard to making it to their advantage to deal with us we always aim to state state only facts. We don't claim to have as many goods as the Shillito Co., Cincinnati. We don't claim to save you 40 to 50 per cent. on goods, nor do we claim to sell at cost, for we know that sensible people know this is untrue. But our claims are modest and are these:

We carry as large a stock of Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes ank Hats as you will find outside of the cities. Every article is selected with great care—style, quality and price all considered. We look for the very best value to sell at a given price. If it costs a few cents or a few dollars more on the dozen, we buy it, knowing that a pleased customer is the best advertisement. We handle the volume of business we do with less expense than nine tenths of the business houses in this section. This we propose to give our customers in values. Come and make a thorough examination to see if our claims are true. We promise to look to your interests, as your interests are ours.

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL has under its present editor taken part in six presidential campaigns. In the other five it had to fight only the republican party, which is its delight and joy. In the one that closed last night it has not only had to fight that disreputable crew, but to wage war on those who had heretofore stood shoulder to shoulder with us in the battle for the people's rights. This has been a most disagreeable duty, but we haven't flinched from it, though our course may have alienated our closest friends. Democracy comes first with us, and when we saw its ticket assailed and its platform denounced by persons, whose every interest was with the party, and saw so-called democrats mix with republicans and stand cheek by jowl with them in a common fight against Bryan, our indignation may have gotten the better of our judgment, and we may have said things it were best not to have said, but what is writ is writ and we have no apology to make or anything to take back. We are here to fight the devil—we mean the republican party, and if in doing so we tread on their allies and assistants so much the worse for the latter. They were sadly out of place else they would have fought with us instead of against us in the battle for the people's rights. A good many of those who have strayed off after false gods will stay with their new found friends, to whom they always had a leaning. The republican party is welcome to them. Their room is better than their company, but the others who have been misled temporarily into error will after due repentance be received into the fold again, though there will not be more joy over it than over the ninety and nine who went not astray. It is not too late yet for some of them to do the right thing. To these we appeal. Go to the polls, stamp under the rooster and go hence with that most desirable of feelings—the consciousness of having performed a patriotic and sacred duty.

MR. GEORGE R. HACKLEY, U. S. Consul (formerly of Danville) at Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, Mexico, under date of Oct. 26, sends us a most interesting communication, which utterly refutes the argument of the gold standard people in using Mexico as a horrid example of the fallacy of the financial plank of the Chicago platform. Mr. Hackley has always affiliated with the republican party and his contribution is in no sense partisan. Observation founded on five years experience there convinces him that proportionately Mexico is on the most prosperous Nations on earth, her advancement during the last 15 years being phenomenal, due principally if not exclusively to the adoption of the silver standard. Mr. Hackley furnishes statistics and facts to back his assertions, and but for the fact that it is too late now for the letter to reach any considerable number of our readers before they will have voted, we would produce it in full. But it is too late now to affect the issue hereabouts. A month ago it would have been worth many votes for the democratic ticket.

THE whole republican outfit from Hanna down to Davison thinks that the American voter can be bought, but they will gnaw a file. All the gold in Golconda can not tempt those who believe that the free coinage of silver will save the country from financial ruin and bring happiness and prosperity from voting their sentiments. Neither money nor coercion counts in the voting booths.

THE great secretary who voted last year "as he pleased," took it out in talking this year and will not vote. He failed to register and has returned to Washington, where in the vaults of the U. S. treasury he will be safe from eggs or other missiles. That he wasn't treated to further indignities must fill the soul of the Courier Journal with unspeakable sadness.

OUR last appeal is that all who call themselves democrats will vote for Bryan, Pryor and Thompson.

THE Cincinnati Enquirer had already expressed the firm belief that William J. Bryan will be elected president of the United States and reiterated it on the eve of the election. This opinion is based on a deliberate, careful study of the conditions and the news of the day; and it is entertained in full view of the duty of a newspaper to tell the news. Every hour strengthens the belief that Mr. Bryan will succeed at the polls; and if he does his administration will be for the honor and glory of the country, for the betterment of the condition of mankind, for the promotion of the central principle of equal and exact justice to all. The charge that his election will be a menace to our institutions, an interference with law, an upheaving of society and a robbery of one class of people for the benefit of another, is worse than idle. It represents the lowest scale of political effort. There is going to be peace under either Mr. Bryan or Mr. McKinley.

THAT any democrat should give up every other principle of democracy to vote for McKinley, an avowed free silver man till this election, simply because the republican platform goes back on former declarations to declare for the gold standard, can be accounted for only the assumption that he wants to vote with the republicans any way and is willing to take force bills, a high protective tariff, increased taxation and a general profligacy in the management of public affairs. Grant every evil that it is claimed free silver will bring, and then they will not begin to compare with the evils that will flow from republican ascendancy. Vote for a government of the people, by the people, for the people, against a government of trusts and combines, which will grind the life out of the people.

NOW that it is all over but the voting, it may not be out of place to say that the wonder is that more boisterous speakers were not disturbed during the canvass than were. Their inflammatory remarks and baseless charges of anarchy, socialism and other epithets howled at democracy and democrats were sufficient to make men rebel, and it is to the credit of those who will vote for Bryan that they were as patient and long suffering as they were.

NOTWITHSTANDING the big boasts of the boss and his minions, and the lies of the venal daily press of Louisville, we can not believe that a majority of the people of this district will vote to elect such a man as Davison to Congress, where he would be as much out of place as a bull in a China shop. John B. Thompson is his superior in every respect. Vote for him and save the honor of the district.

THE democrat who puts his stamp under the rooster votes the whole democratic ticket including Judge W. S. Pryor and John B. Thompson. If perchance you think you can't vote the whole ticket, stamp under any device you may wish, but be sure you put your X in the square opposite the names of the candidates for appellate judge and Congress.

THE Louisville Times does the grand old jurist more harm than good by damning him with faint praise like this: Judge Pryor's name appears in bad company on the ballot, but every friend of law and order in the 5th Appellate district ought to vote to continue this pure, able and almost indispensable judge on the bench.

THE young man with democratic predilections who votes the republican ticket to-day will live to regret it, as certain so-called democratic office seekers will yet mourn in sack cloth and ashes for their course in this campaign. The INTERIOR JOURNAL has kept its eye on these fellows and will remember them.

WE regret to observe that Col. French Tipton has retired from the Richmond Climax, which he has edited with slight intermissions for many years. He is a fine writer and a good newspaper man and having the ink on his fingers, we hope he won't be able to wash it off, but return soon to his old love.

THE Louisville Post, which has been engaged in the dirty work of trying to elect him, asks "Will Gov. McCreary's shoes fit George?" Every decent man knows that they will not and that his election would be a disgrace to the district. Davison, Congressman! May the fates forefend it.

NO matter who is elected the INTERIOR JOURNAL will continue to do business at the old stand. Men may come and men may go but it goes on forever, preaching democratic doctrine and warning the people to flee from the wrath to come if republican principles prevail.

LET every democrat go to the polls early to-day and stamp under the rooster, then see that your neighbor does likewise, and Bryan's election and that of Thompson is assured.

DEMOCRATS do your duty to-day and there will be no fears of the result. Vote for Bryan, Pryor and Thompson by stamping under the rooster.

WE have no hesitancy in saying that we believe that to-day's battle of the ballots will result in a signal victory for Bryan and democracy.

A MOMENTOUS issue is to be settled to-day. Let us do it decently and in order.

POLITICAL POINTS.

—The 1st district will give Bryan 1,200 majority.

—At least four deaths resulted Sunday from political quarrels.

—Miner Shannon, of Colorado, offers to bet $100,000 on Bryan.

—Leroy Thompson fell dead at Fowler, Ind., while making a political speech.

—There are 447 votes in the electoral college, of which 224 will be necessary to elect.

—Chairman Sommers, of the democratic State campaign committee, claims this district by 359.

—Cut rates to Canton on the railroads ended yesterday, and the occupation of the hired delegate is gone.

—There is a Bryan club in Union City, Ind., 200 strong, composed of youths who will cast their first vote to-day.

—An egg with "B" on one side and "16 to 1" on the other was found on a farm near Huntsville, Ala.

—Two of the students who threw eggs at the Bryan parade at Chicago were expelled from the business college.

—Mike Shea, of Indianapolis, said to be 115, a democrat all his life, says "I intend to vote for Bryan or die a trying."

—The Bryan club of Fairmount, W. Va., has a member 104 years old who marched in a parade there the other night.

—Lewisburg, this State, will give a solid vote for democracy to-day. The few republicans there have come out for Bryan.

—Bryan's candidacy has brought $40,000,000 in gold to this country without a bond issue, says the Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

—Mr. Bryan spent yesterday making short speeches at various points in Nebraska and wound up with a big one at Omaha.

—The Palmer and Buckner ticket is only a bait for suckers. Vote the democratic ticket or go teeth and toe nails over to the devil.

—Charles R. Crisp, it is said, will be elected practically without opposition to succeed his father in Congress from the 3d Georgia district.

—The official declaration of the vote in Georgia gives Atkinson for governor 34,995 majority and Obandler the democratic candidate for Secretary of State 55,731.

—The Buffalo Express denounces the fusion of the republicans with Breckinridge and so would all other republican papers, if they had the decency and honesty to do so.

—Hanna claims that Kentucky, Indiana, Virginia and Tennessee will go for McKinley, but if he gets any of them he will be doing well. Bryan is almost sure of all of them.

—It has been discovered that 100 Negroes from Tennessee have registered at Middleboro. Knox and Whitley county will also be flooded with Virginia and Tennessee Negroes.

—Patrick McGarvey, of Philadelphia, has agreed with Sam Robinson to walk to Lincoln, Neb., if Bryan is defeated. If McKinley is defeated Robinson will make the trip on foot.

—Prominent republicans from Whitley claim that the vote of that county will be about equally divided between Black, White and Colson and predict the election of Black by a good majority. So mote it be.

—The republicans are not claiming much in Congress now. They admit that their present majority in the House will be cut down to 30 or 40, while the democratic managers say it will be wiped out altogether.

—Mr. Bryan and Mr. McKinley were last candidates for office on the same day, November 4, 1890, when both were running for Congress. Mr. McKinley was defeated and Mr. Bryan elected. History repeats itself.

—The citizens of Covington have taken proper and vigorous action on the outrage on Secretary Carlisle. The citizens of New Haven, however, have never taken any steps to prosecute the cowardly Yale students, who insulted Mr. Bryan.

—In comparison with John B. Thompson, Davison is a potato hill by the side of Joe's Lick Knob. If you want the 8th Congressional district properly represented, or in fact, represented at all, vote for John B. Thompson.—Richmond Climax.

—Marcus Aurelius Hanna, who will be the real president if his predictions prove true, figures that his little man will get 311 votes to-day. This is upon the assumption that the American voter can be bought at so much a head and counted as it pleases him.

—A dispatch from Denver, says W. S. Stratton's $100,000 deposited at the First National Bank of Colorado Springs, was not covered by McKinley money when time for acceptance expired. Some New York bankers said they would wire $300,000, but it never came.

—This is what Gen. Palmer said to his hearers at Warrenburg, Mo.: "I promise you, my fellow democrats, I will not consider it any great fault if you decide next Tuesday to cast your ballots for William McKinley, although you may, if you desire it, vote for Palmer and Buckner."

—A dispatch from Louisville to the Cincinnati Enquirer says: The Enquirer correspondent met Hon. John S. Owensley, Sr., ex representative from Lincoln county, on the train. Mr. Owensley said that while he should vote for Palmer and Buckner, he would vote for Col. John B. Thompson, the democratic candidate for Congress. He said that Lincoln county will give Thompson 200 majority.

—The flat failure of the National democratic movement has made the men who got it up almost ridiculous. It is so plainly a fake game for the purpose of making votes for McKinley, that the men who are controlling it will have to serve a long time to regain the confidence of their fellow citizens.—Louisville Truth.

—The Louisville Times, which has done its part towards deceiving the people during the campaign, gives this honest advice, which was hardly necessary with reference to what appears in that paper: A good rule of conduct from now until your conscientious vote is cast, and the honest result is truthfully announced, is to credit little or nothing of what you hear and accept at not more than 50 cents on the dollar the things political that you see.

—Somerset had a monster democratic rally Saturday, the crowd being estimated at from 8,000 to 10,000. It was the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that has assembled there this campaign. The horseback parade was over a mile in length, a large number being on white horses. A large wagon drawn by six white horses carried 16 young ladies dressed in white and one in yellow. Col. L. H. Rousseau, an ex-Union soldier and a life long republican, headed the procession. Among the many speakers was Col. O. H. Brewer, of Madison, a life long republican, and he says there are 150 republicans in Madison county who will vote for Bryan.

—Bob Ingersoll said in his Chicago speech: "You have got to choose between the republican party and the new democratic party. Oh, I forgot the third party—Yes, Palmer and Buckner, (laughter). Too good to vote for Bryan, and not quite sensible enough to vote for McKinley. Brother Palmer is a kind of decoy duck, while his running mate is a stool pigeon; and they say, 'We want to beat Bryan, vote for us.' And some fellow in the crowd says, 'Do you expect to be elected?' 'Oh no. We are just running to catch the votes of democrats who have not sense enough to vote according to their conscience. We want to catch a few petrefactions that want to stick to the democratic party, so as to have it on their tombstones.'" —Covington, Arnold & Bro., paid T. D. Chenault 70c for 4,000 bushels of wheat, and to Sam Black 75c for 1,200 bushels.—Richmond Register.

—J. B. Embury loaded the seven car loads of export cattle here yesterday that he bought a couple of weeks ago, mention of which was made at the time.

—Thomas White bought 40 head of sheep from J. P. Turner here last court day for 54c. per head and sold them in Versailles Monday for $1.20.—Nicholasville Journal.

—Hon. John S. Owensley, Sr., sold to Montie Fox the remaining 50 of his fat cattle at 4 cents. They will average 1,500. Mr. Owensley has a large lot of cattle to winter and bought of his neighbors 300 barrels of corn at 80 cents put in his crib.

MUST UNITE AND CONQUER.

Wage-Earners Appeal to Farmers for Concerted Action Against Coercion and McKinleyism.

THE SAME INTERESTS.

The Hope of Good Government Rests Largely with the Independent and Patriotic Farmer.

The Interests of All Producers Wrapped Up in the Election of Bryan and the Success of Free Silver—Protection Against Coercion and Intimidation.

The following stirring and patriotic appeal has been addressed to the producers of the Mississippi valley by the organized workmen of Chicago:

Chicago, Oct. 27, 1896.
To the Farmers and Agricultural Laborers of the State of Illinois and of the Mississippi Valley—Greeting:

As representing the interests and having at heart the welfare of the wage-earning classes of our cities and great centers of industry, we address you, as we approach the close of this momentous campaign, upon a question that we believe to be of vital interest to all those who are engaged in the productive industries of the country. It is a fact conceded by all intelligent persons, that the wealth of the country is the result of its productive energy; that the toiling masses, those who work with their hands in the industries of life, in fact produce all of the material wealth of the world. We do not propose to underestimate the value of intelligence in the directing of industry; nor do we ignore the importance of intellectual labor; but we repeat, that the material wealth of the world is the result of its manual toil, applied to natural resources. In view of this truth we insist that the condition of any country is utterly deplorable when, as in our land, more than 75 per cent. of the wealth of the nation is in the hands of less than ten per cent. of its population, as shown by the statistics of the last census report; this ten per cent. embracing not a single producer, but only the men who grow rich and powerful by the manipulation of money and of property. When, as in this country, we find that the toiling masses, as representing more than 82 per cent. of the population, possess, as shown by the same statistics, less than 16 per cent. of the wealth of the country, we submit that these facts indicate a deplorable state of society, particularly when it will be admitted that the great majority of our wage-earning population are men and women who are at once industrious and honest, capable and the most intelligent wage-earners in the world.

It is a truism in finance that they who control the money of a nation control its life. The more you reduce the volume of money by so much you increase its purchasing power, and give to those who hold it, the more power which is the more result of legislation favorable to their interests, and not the result of any honest endeavor or genuine merit upon their part. It is also true beyond question—as it has always been in the history of the world so it is now—that the interests of the wage-earning and wealth-producing classes are identical. Whatever financial policy will result in raising the price of the products of labor, will in like manner result inevitably in advancing the wages of labor. In the present campaign a studied effort has been made, and is now being pushed, to bring about dissension between the great bodies of the laboring people of the United States, the agricultural laborers as a class, and the industrial wage-earners. Now, as always, the privileged classes act upon the motto: "Divide and conquer." They know that any form of representative government labor union can control the administration and direct its legislation, except so far as those who are elected may prove recreant to the trust imposed upon them, and vulnerable to the approach of the professional lobbyist. Every effort has been made in the present campaign to array the wage-earners of the cities, and of the great manufacturing industries of the country, against the agricultural producers and laborers, upon the theory that the increased prices of agricultural products, which would inevitably result upon the remonetization of silver, would be prejudicial to the industrial wage-earners, by increasing the cost to them of the necessities of life.

It has been the policy of the present campaign conducted under the direction of Mark Hanna, aptly designated as "An Industrial Carnibal," to endeavor to secure the purchasable vote which always exists in great centers of population, by the lavish and corrupt use of money, and to array that vote against the interest of agriculturists. But he and his associates have not stopped with this; they have in addition resorted to every conceivable form of coercion, with a view to compelling incoercible wage-earners in the city to join in this crusade against agricultural industry under the pressure of a threat of the loss of position and employment in the event of the triumph of the free silver cause. The pressure that has been brought to bear in this direction, typified by the brutal conduct of Mr. Crawford in St. Louis, who discharged from his employment every free silver man in his establishment, simply because of his attitude upon the financial issue, has been very great, and hard to be resisted. That by the processes thus resorted to unscrupulous managers of the republican campaign expect to succeed in controlling in a large measure the purchasable vote of the great cities, and also through terror to cause many a well intentioned workman to vote against his own earnest convictions, cannot be doubted. We believe, however, that the appeal which has been made to the manhood of the American citizen, to assert his rights in the exercise of the franchise under the Australian ballot, will be successful; and that thus the efforts of these unscrupulous managers will be rendered unavailing. Still it must be admitted that from these conditions there exists a menace to the cause we have at heart; and hence it is that now we appeal to you, whose interests are so vitally involved in this issue, that you redouble your efforts, with quickened energies, and make the majority of the agricultural vote of the Mississippi valley for the free silver cause and its champions, as large as possible; so large, in fact, that it will gloriously overcome and overwhelm all of these floating votes, whether obtained corruptly or through coercion, which the enemy may succeed in obtaining, and in which alone they find their present confidence of success.

You in the exercise of your calling are not being spied upon by the minions of capital, as are the wage-earners of the cities. Each of you upon his own field of labor walks and works in an independent atmosphere that is impossible in these days to the average wage-earner in the great centers of industry. Wherever such a worker toils he is not only being watched by his foreman, but he is liable to find his elbow some spy upon his liberty, some seducer of his civic virtue, some treacherous fellow workman ever ready to report to his employer, and pressing upon the want and self-interest of the employer the temptation of greed, or the promises which appeal to the cowards. Those who may yield to influences such as these must be offset by the hosts of our honest and patriotic farmers. Secure in their personal freedom they can be relied upon. Do not fear but that you will have us with you in your struggle. Unite with us with earnest purpose and redoubled zeal, and make good among the intelligent yeomanry of this great valley any possible loss of voter which may result from coercion and bribery.

We assure you, as fellow workers, as members of the great army of the toiling masses of the land, that we refuse to listen to all appeals which would set us against you, our fellow workmen. We declare ourselves loyal to silver and to the cause of industrial production everywhere. We pledge you our support in the present campaign; and we rejoice in the confidence that if labor will but present a united front in the battle the triumph of the cause of free silver, of Bryan and humanity, is certain! AGAINST THE GOLD STANDARD.

The Leaders of the Republican Party Have Taught Their Followers to Favor Silver.

THEIR WORDS QUOTED.

The Republican Party Heretofore Favored the Double Standard and Free Coinage of Both Metals.

The Single Gold Standard a New Departure—Good Reasons Why the Rank and File of the Party Should Not Abandon Its Safe Old Position in Favor of the Double Standard.

The supporters of Mr. Bryan can prove the correctness of their position in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver by the scientific opinion of the world, by the experience of mankind, by the founders of our government and by the most honored and influential leaders of the republican party. There has scarcely been a republican of sufficient prominence to entitle him to leadership since the party was organized who has not, at some time, declared against the gold standard and in favor of bimetalism and the remonetization of silver. In every instance these declarations have been freely and voluntarily made, and without other incentive than that supplied from an active conscience and an honest mind. It is the exigency of partisan politics, controlled by the money power, that has placed the republican party where it is and has compelled some of its leaders to stultify themselves on the subject.

Silver was not demonetized until after the tragic death of Mr. Lincoln, but the money sharks were busy with the greenback issues of the war period while Lincoln was in the white house, and the martyr president thus spoke from the depths of his honest heart of an evil from which this country has since suffered much:

"If a government contracted a debt with a certain amount of money in circulation, and then contracted the money volume before the debt was paid, it is the most heinous crime that a government could commit against the people."

There is $150,000,000 less money in circulation now than there was two years ago, so that the heinous crime of which Lincoln spoke is now being inflicted on the people.

President Grant said: "With free and unlimited coinage of gold and silver we will clear away our public debt before the close of the century."

Gen. Grant declared afterwards that he did not know he had signed a bill to demonetize silver. The end of the century is almost here, and the public debt has not only not been cleared away, but it is now growing larger. Because of the depreciation of the gold standard it will take more days' labor and more bushels of wheat to pay what now remains of the public debt than it would in Gen. Grant's time to have paid the whole of it. Jesse Grant is supporting Bryan and free silver and believes his distinguished father would do the same if he were living.

Speaking in the house of representatives on February 7, 1878, Mr. Blaine uttered these prophetic words:

"I believe the struggle now going on in this country and other countries for a single gold standard would, if successful, produce widespread disaster in and throughout the commercial world. The destruction of silver as money, and the establishment of gold as the sole unit of value must have a ruinous effect on all forms of property, except those invested which yield a fixed return in money. These would be enormously enhanced in value, and would gain a disproportionate and unfair advantage over every other species of property."

President Garfield said: "Every man who is opposed to the use of silver coin as a part of the legal currency of the country, I disagree with. Every man who is opposed to the actual legal use of both metals, I disagree with. I would endow the two dollars with equality and make the coinage free."

Even Senator John Sherman is on record against the gold standard and the demonetization of silver. In a speech to the senate on April 10, 1876 (Congressional Record, vol. 4, pt. 3, p. 2,341), he said: "To adopt the gold standard alone and demonetize silver would be to deprive the poor people of the world of the money which alone measures the value of their productions and their labor. * * * Gold alone is not suitable for a currency, because it will not measure the daily wants of the great mass of mankind."

In his message of December 6, 1892, President Harrison, speaking of the international monetary conference, then in session (the last one that ever met), said:

"If any temporary check or delay intervenes, I believe that very soon commercial conditions will compel the now reluctant governments to unite with us in this movement to secure the enlargement of the volume of coined money needed for transaction of the business of the world."

But the reluctant governments have not united with us, and show no disposition to do so. Prince Bismarck says the surest way to secure their cooperation is for the United States to declare for international bimetalism.

Gen. John A. Logan said of the policy of contraction that accompanied the demonetization of silver:

"I, for one, can see benefit only to the money-holder and those who receive interest and have fixed incomes. I can see, as a result to this legislation, our business operations crippled and wages for labor reduced to a mere pittance. I can see the beautiful prairies of my own state and of the great west, which are blooming as gardens, with cheerful homes rising like white towers along the pathway of improvement, again sinking back to idleness. I can see mortgage fiends at their hellish work. I can see the hopes of the industrious farmers blasted as they burn corn for fuel because its price will not pay the cost of transportation and dividends on millions of dollars of fictitious railway stocks and bonds. I can see our people of the west groaning and burdened under taxation to pay debts of state, counties and cities incurred when money was more abundant and bright hopes of the future were held out to lead them on. I can see the people of our western states, who are producers, reduced to the condition of serfs to pay interest on public and private debts to the money sharks of Wall street, New York, and of Thread-needle street in London."

Senator William B. Allison, of Iowa, said in the senate June 6, 1890:

"The affairs of this world cannot be conducted upon the single basis of gold; and the war and contest to-day is between those who seek to destroy and outlaw silver and those who seek to place it upon an equality with gold. That is the contest, and I am for the full and complete restoration of silver as one of the coin metals of the world, and therefore, I propose to do whatever I can to promote that most desirable object."

Bob Ingersoll said: "Silver was demonetized by fraud. It was an imposition upon every solvent man; a fraud upon every honest debtor in the United States. It assassinated labor. It was done in the interest of avarice and greed, and should be undone by honest men. The farmer should vote only for such men as are able and willing to guard and advance the interests of labor."

Senator Thurston said: "It is better that we should, if necessary, buy gold at a premium to settle our foreign balance with than that the American people should be compelled to pay higher prices in human labor and human endeavor for a dollar because of the adoption of the single gold standard. I am an advocate of the American theory. I have no doubt the remonetization of silver in the United States would speedily and certainly appreciate the price of silver, not only in this country, but throughout the whole world."

Ex-Congressman Butterworth, of Ohio, in a recent letter, said:

"Is it not folly to suppose that the capitalists of England—and they are the capitalists of the world—will be easily persuaded to agree or consent to bimetalism? Why should they? How is it to their interest to do so, while we consent to make it to their advantage to refuse? They have doubled the value of their credits by demonetizing silver, and thus, in effect, doubled the interest received by them. The United States blundered into that trap and within a year beggared millions of her citizens, and if we adhere to the blunder, will beggar 5,000,000 more, and double the burden of every debtor and every burden-bearer in the land."

The republican national platform of 1888 said, William McKinley being chairman of the committee on platform:

"The republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money and condemns the policy of the democratic administration (Cleveland's first administration) in its efforts to demonetize silver."

The republican national platform of 1892 said:

"The American people from tradition and interest favor bimetalism, and the republican party demands the use of both gold and silver as standard money."

Is it any wonder that the thousands and thousands of republicans, who have been taught by their leaders, as well as by their own study and observation, that the gold standard is not good for the country, and that silver should be remonetized, now refuse to follow the party since it has been committed to the support of the gold standard? Among these are Hon. Albert Williams, of Iowa, Mich., the sole survivor of the 16 original republicans, who, in 1854, gave the party its name and wrote its first platform. Others are Gen. Birney, Jesse Grant, Thomas Garfield, Senator Teller and thousands of others whom the money power cannot buy.

The Indianapolis convention has been described as the "finest array of bankers, railroad men and attorneys for corporations and trusts ever got together."

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

The Power of Public Opinion Versus Corporations—The Passing of Commodian Harrigan.

[Special Correspondence.]

A great many persons affect to belittle the power of public opinion. These people are apt to declare that it does not amount to anything unless the corporation at which it is directed is willing to allow itself to be influenced. That this is not the case there are daily illustrations in almost every community of importance in the country. A case in point is of very recent occurrence in this city. The Broadway cable line for a long time after it had been put in operation was a source of constant irritation to the thousands who were compelled to patronize it daily. This was due to the fact that the gripmen could never be induced to stop for a male passenger unless he appeared to be very old or feeble.

Took His Number.

The average mortal of the male sex is a good deal of a bluffer. He will do an awful lot of kicking while he is angry, but seldom follows up a cause of complaint to a point where his protest might serve to produce some beneficial effect. And thus it is with New Yorkers to a marked degree. The cable cars would not stop for them; so they did a little sprinting, jumped on the rear platform, did a little kicking to the conductor, got vague answers, and in many cases downright impertinence, vowed vengeance, made a memorandum of the conductor's number for the purpose of reporting him to the company and then—forgot all about the whole thing.

Naturally no relief came as a result of that course, and finally the patrons of the road in little groups determined to make a complaint in writing whenever one was deserved, and, further, never to attempt to board one of the cars until after it had come to a full stop. Then a number of them began to write to the newspapers, which took the matter up, and now it is possible for a man who is not a trained athlete to get on or off a Broadway cable car without serious risk of decapitation.

The company had had the proper rules for the guidance of employees from the very beginning, but simply did not bother about enforcing them until public opinion compelled them to do so.

The Passing of Harrigan.

It has often been remarked that when the public once tires of a theatrical favorite nothing in the world can induce it to take him into its heart again. The case of Edward Harrigan furnishes an apt and timely illustration. Many years ago, when Harrigan and Hart were partners and had their cozy little playhouse, they were on the highroad to fortune, but a fire or two and little or no insurance gave them a setback from which it seemed impossible that they could ever fully recover. However, they went right along and appeared to be making money. Then came the quarrel, which many persons averred was caused by their wives, and the separation in a business way of the two men who were the idols of a large section of the amusement loving public of this city, Brooklyn and a considerable section of the country. Then Tony Hart began to go down, and his end in a lunatic asylum is familiar to all. Harrigan went to the Park theater, wrote more plays, acted in them, made money, built Harrigan's theater and was generally regarded as one of the most fortunate men in the theatrical profession. But his day was not to be a long one. Somehow or other the public tired of him. Whether it was due to the fact, frequently alleged, that his work as a playwright had fallen off or to a change in public taste is not material. The result, so far as Harrigan was concerned, was the same.

No Longer a Great Attraction.

Where he had been regarded as an attraction which was certain to play to the capacity of the house he got to be considered only a moderately good drawing card, and gradually in many places even that distinction has passed away. It was current rumor on the Rialto here that his engagement at the Bijou had to be cut short owing to unprofitable business, and it is an incontestable fact that later, in Brooklyn, his receipts would have seemed almost niggardly to him a few years ago.

This is really a regrettable occurrence, because, whatever may be said of Harrigan's shortcomings as an actor, it is a fact that he wrote plays depicting a certain phase of life in a remarkably clever manner. That the life was not that of Fifth avenue was nothing to his discredit. There is just as much humanity, and usually a good deal more, in the hovels of the lower east side as in the palaces of the upper west side. Harrigan's theater is now known as the Garrick, and it is said that the distinguished author-actor is far from being a wealthy man. It is a sad case, and one which contains a warning to histrions to make hay while the sun of popularity shines upon them.

Hotels and Theaters.

Lured on by the success of a few men in this city who conduct theaters and hotels, many others have gone into one or the other of these businesses, and it is no secret that most of them have not made any more money than the Standard Oil company, for instance. Still, the buildings continue to go up. The new Manhattan hotel has just thrown open its doors to the public, and the Murray Hill theater, Lexington avenue and Forty-third street, is in the field as a competitor of the first class houses.

The Herald Square hotel, at Broadway and Thirty-sixth street, is going up rapidly, and there are rumors of several new theaters, besides innumerable small hotels. Meanwhile, so far as the theaters are concerned, the business would appear to be already woefully overdone, inasmuch as a few weeks ago, in the best portion of the season, three of the most prominent houses in town were closed for periods of greater or less length.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY.

The Marquis de Merinville, who recently married Mary Gwendolin Caldwell, secured an American heiress for whose hand many foreign noblemen have vainly sought. Very little is known on this side of the water about the marquis. He is vaguely referred to as the possessor of an ancient French title and a man of the world. Of the former Miss Caldwell, though, we have the fullest details. The daughter of a wealthy Virginia planter and heiress to $2,000,000, she has figured not a little in Washington and New York society, but most of her time has been spent abroad with her sister, who married the late Baron von Zedwitz of Dresden. The baron was killed about two months ago in a yachting accident.

Miss Caldwell was known as a deeply religious young woman, and her gifts to Catholic institutions have been most liberal. Her largest donation was the sum of $800,000, which she gave to found the Catholic university at Washington. About seven years ago it was announced that she was to wed the aged and invalid Prince Murat, but the impetuous French nobleman insisted that half her fortune should be settled on him previous to the ceremony. She promptly refused, and the match was called off. The marquis is now 34 years old and is a very handsome woman.

Our Admiral in the Mediterranean.

In view of the attention which Uncle Sam is paying to the actions of the terrible Turk it is interesting to note that Admiral Thomas O. Selfridge is in command of our fleet in the Mediterranean. If there is any man in our navy who is to be relied upon in case of a call to "clear decks for action" it is this same Admiral Selfridge. He has worn navy blue ever since he was 17, and before he was 30 he had seen more sea fighting than most men do in a lifetime. All through the civil war he was in the thick of the scrimmage. As a lieutenant he was on the Cumberland when she went down with her flag flying, and he escaped by jumping from a porthole. He was in command of two other gunboats which were sunk, and he took a hand in crippling many of the Confederate boats. He distinguished himself at the siege of Fort Fisher as well as in several other engagements, and his promotion was rapid.

In 1869 he found himself a commander and reached the grade of admiral a year ago. Since the war he has held numerous important positions in the navy and has done duty in all parts of the world. His father, Admiral Selfridge, retired, is still living.

The Castle Case.

The arrest of Mrs. Ella Castle, together with her husband, Walter M. Castle, in London on a charge of shoplifting, has attracted international attention. Mr. Castle is a wealthy wholesale grocer of San Francisco, and his wife comes of an old and honored family of that city. Both the Castles, in fact, are well connected and moved in the highest social circles. Their arrest was a great surprise to their friends in America. Mr. Castle's defense for his wife is that of kleptomania.

Gold Neck Chains.

At the present moment there is quite a fancy for wearing a fine gold neck chain with a single gem pendant. The gem, of course, must be large and fine. Sometimes the pendant is composed of several small stones and takes the form of a crescent, a heart or a pear.

THE SPORTING WORLD.

It is an easy thing to keep on your own side of the road, and yet it is a daily occurrence to meet people who pay not the slightest attention to where they are riding, whether they are a nuisance to every one in general or whether they are directly disobeying one of the most common courtesies of the public at large. As some wise person has said, "Of course every man has a right to half the road, but he hasn't the right to kick his half out of the middle of the street." But that is exactly what a great many people insist on doing, and for which reason occur a great many unfortunate and serious collisions that could be easily avoided.

Bicycle collisions are a species of accident that it is wise to avoid, not only on account of the danger to life and limb, but because a bicycle, though built to withstand rough use, is not bound to be accident proof against the force of a collision. Stop and think for a moment of the damage that may ensue from the colliding of two bicycle riders in rapid motion. A man weighing 180 pounds and moving at the rate of 12 feet a second, which is but a trifle over eight miles an hour, has a momentum of 1,800 pounds, and this leaves out of account altogether the weight of the wheel. This is sufficient to upset any pedestrian with terrific force. A collision between two wheels, each carrying a 180 pound rider, running a long at the moderate speed of eight miles an hour would result in a smash up, with a force of nearly 4,000 pounds.

It has been thought that the pneumatic tire forms a sort of safeguard which would prevent serious concussion in case of a collision. Perhaps it would have a slightly modifying effect, but it would be of little or no account. Taking these facts into consideration, it is very evident that a bicycle collision is not the most pleasant thing in the world, and every good wheelman should avoid such chances by keeping on his own side of the road.—New York Times.

A Bicycling Cat.

Danville, Pa., probably has the only bicycle fiend in the shape of a cat in the United States. It is a black cat—as black as the hinges of midnight—and belongs to W. G. Proctor. This cat enjoys a bicycle ride as well as any wheelman in America and never misses an opportunity of taking one. The route is never too long and the pace never too warm for him. The cat does not, to be sure, sit upon the saddle and do the pedaling, but it rides upon the shoulders of the boys in the neighborhood. In the evening, when the boys start out on their spins, one of them will place this cat upon his shoulders, and there Tom will sit through the entire journey if permitted to do so. The cat never falls from its perch. Sometimes it is partially dislodged by the boys in mounting or by a sudden turn or bump in the road, but its claws are ever ready to catch a new hold. When the cat sees one of the youngsters starting out for a ride, it runs after him, and if he does not offer to take it up Tom rubs against his leg and meows in a very supplicating manner to be taken along. The cat is about a year old and has been a victim of the bicycle fever for several months.—Philadelphia Record.

Athletic Prizes at Yale.

Dr. W. G. Anderson of Yale has offered a prize for the gymnast who improves most in the tumbling exercises during the coming year. The Julian Curtiss trophy is presented every year for excellence in work on the horizontal bars. Besides these prizes the Yale Gymnastic association offers 16 prizes for work on the horizontal and parallel bars, in club swinging, rope climbing, tumbling, long horse, side horse and rings. The prizes will be competed for in two meets and will go to first and second men. The right to wear the university "Y" on the sweater will go to the man scoring the highest number of points, the first to count five and the second three.—Exchange.

Great Guns.

"Rolla O. Heikes, the great clay bird smasher, who is at present on a visit to the Pacific coast," says one of his friends, "has some old guns which he prizes very highly. One is a Golcher smoothbore, muzzle loader, with a barrel 45 inches long. This gun is over 75 years old, and according to Rolla he shot quail with it 25 years ago. Another gun is of the flintlock pattern and is more than 100 years old, having once been used by Mr. Heikes' grandfather. This weapon had been made for a field gun and was light and well balanced. He also has a flintlock pistol that might have seen service in the Revolutionary war."—Exchange.

Sporting Notes.

Indoor quoiting matches with rubber clad quoits are popular in Philadelphia. The announcement that Umpire Lynch has returned to his home at New Britain, Conn., and assumed control of his theatrical business is coupled with the future one that he will umpire next year.

The crack bitch of the Orageton kennel of collies, owned by J. Pierpont Morgan of New York, recently presented her master with a healthy collie pup which was minus one leg.

At a recent sale in Philadelphia the bay stallion Antelo, by Electioneer, for which $60,000 is said to have been paid, was sold for $1,200.

A physician is quoted as saying that golf is the ideal game for women. In golf he finds the best mixture of general invigoration, exercise and interest without too much excitement.

Haverford college, which has contributed several stars to the Pennsylvania football team, is said to have an especially strong line this season.

A Bad Day.

Beggar—Beg pardon, sir, but I have seen better days than this. Passerby—So have I. The weather is horrid.—Pick Me Up.

A DISGRACEFUL UTTERANCE.

Bishop Worthington Says Too Much Education Is What Is the Matter with the Farmers.

The Council Bluffs (Ia.) Nonpareil, a republican paper and an ardent supporter of McKinley, publishes the following in the fifth column on the third page of its issue of October 14:

"New York, Oct. 23.—Bishop Worthington, of Omaha, Neb., who is attending the meeting of the house of bishops of the Episcopal church, is a democrat, but he will vote for McKinley. Speaking of the situation in Nebraska, he said:

"I do not know whether Mr. Bryan will carry the state or not. I fear that he may, because the populists and many of the democrats have united. I am a Jeffersonian democrat. What I do not like about Mr. Bryan is that he has arrayed the masses against the classes. Mr. Bryan is not a statesman; surely he is not. He is too young and inexperienced. We need at the head of this government in our present crisis the wisest man we can possibly secure.—McKinley."

"When it was suggested to the bishop that the farmers throughout the country were not in as prosperous condition as they had been in the past, Bishop Worthington said: 'The trouble with the farmer, in my judgment, is that we have carried our free educational system too far. The farmer's sons—a great many of them—who have absolutely no ability to rise, get a taste of education and follow it up. They will never amount to anything—that is many of them—and they become dissatisfied to follow in the walk of life that God intended they should, and drift into the cities. It is the over-education of those who are not qualified to receive it that fills our cities while the farms lie idle.'

"Speaking of trusts, he said he thought the iniquitous silver trust, which is trying to make a profit on its silver at the expense of the people, the worst."

That a man professing to be a minister of the meek and lowly Saviour could bring himself to speak in this heartless and cold-blooded manner is almost beyond comprehension. There is nothing in agriculture incompatible with the most liberal education. The educated farmer is, in fact, the best and most successful farmer. The farmers' sons are leaving the farms not because education has unfitted them for farm life, but because our merciless financial system, based on the gold standard, has forced down the prices of farm products until it is difficult to make a living on the farm and utterly impossible to make anything more than that. And this bishop would add just the farmers' boys to the gold standard by depriving them of the blessings of education and forcing them back into a state of ignorance and degradation that would find no fault with it.

Humanity ought not to be thus sacrificed to gold. Let our financial system, rather, be adjusted to the necessities and aspirations of humanity. Let bi-metalism be again established, and the price of farm products will rise until the profits of agriculture will again attract a part of the educated business talent that now seeks employment elsewhere.

No man of good heart and common sense would sneer at the intelligence of the farm. It has been the birthplace and starting point of commanding ability and patriotic leadership in every land and time. The sentiment uttered by Bishop Worthington is a disgrace to common civilization. Poor, old Burchard lacked sense. Bishop Worthington lacks those attributes of the heart as well, without which no man is worthy of the respect of his fellows.

"Now is your wife this morning?" asked a well known Washington attorney of a brother lawyer, whose wife was ailing.

"The prospects are very gloomy," was the reply.

"Is she so much worse?"

"She was sitting up when I left, but the doctor gives me no hope. She won't die from her present ailment, but I am afraid it will break up our home."

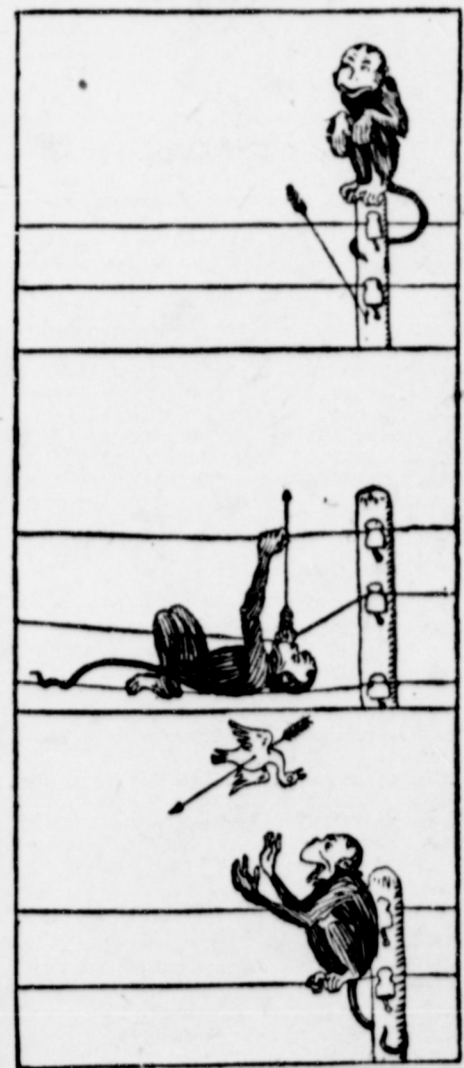

"Is her mind affected?"

"It does not seem to be."

"Then what is the trouble?"

"I don't know, but the doctor said she would be a new woman within a week, so I am prepared for the worst." —Washington Star.

Disturbing Thought. In a dreamy, abstracted manner Pygmalion picked up a robe and threw it over the lovely figure in which the warm blood had scarcely more than begun to pulsate.

"What is it, my master?" asked Galatea.

"I was thinking," replied the sculptor, rousing himself from his reverie, "what a frost you would have got if I had offered to set you up in the Boston library."—Chicago Tribune.

Of the 700, more than 600 were sons of Ham. Mr. Rice thinks that Madison will go democratic to-day sure.

"The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year," sang William Cullen Bryant at this season, but so far November has disproved his lines. Two fairer days or more delightful ones have not appeared during the good year of 1896 than Nov. 1st and 2d. If to-day prove as fine, fully 14,000,000 people will be at the polls.

HOUSE BURNED.—Mr. V. R. Coleman, of Middleburg, was here Saturday and told us of the burning of Will Short's house near that place. It caught from the flue and before anything could be removed the house and contents were destroyed. None of the male members of the family were at home and the women were so frightened they ran clear off the premises.

THE Gracie Whorton Mission Band gave a very enjoyable candy pulling at Mrs. George A. Peyton's hospitable home Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5. There were about 60 pupils of the college present besides a number of young ladies and patrons of these schools. About $6 was cleared while the little folks enjoyed eating candy and playing games, in which the big folks also took a part. Mrs. Peyton desires to thank all who were so kind to send in candy, etc., or who gave aid for the band. E. L. G.

FOR RENT.—Two nice cottages on Logan Avenue. S. P. Staggs.

It is all over but the voting and shouting. To-day we do the former, to-morrow we hope to do the latter.

THE appeal of the republican National committee brought out but one poor little flag in Stanford.

THE Knoxville Branch of the L. & N. has been assessed for taxation at $12,500 a mile and the K. C. division at $15,000.

It is reported that the republicans have $3,000 to use in this county for McKinley and Davidson. You are entitled to your part of the divide. Don't vote till you get it.

THE section house just beyond Rowland was loaded on a couple of flat cars and taken to Maywood Saturday. The sight of an engine pulling a train with a two-story house on board was a rather unusual one.

HON. R. C. WARREN spoke to a large audience at Waynesburg Saturday afternoon. That portion of the county is in splendid fighting shape and the majority at that precinct to-day will, we predict, be larger than for years.

JAILED.—Cole Carpenter, a Negro, was arrested and put in jail Sunday afternoon for being drunk and disorderly. He had just served out a heavy fine for carrying a pick into the jail to enable the Evans gang to escape.

THE election news will be received full and complete by Messrs. J. S. Rice, W. F. Sherman and other experts of the key at the court house to-night. The wires are now being run thereto and for the small sum of 50 cents you can hear to-night who has won or lost.

THE efforts of Hons. R. C. Warren and Harvey Helm for democracy in this campaign entitle them to any honor that the party has to confer. They have made a bold fight and have had no fear of the republican boss before their eyes. Verily they will receive their reward.

BOBBITT's effort at the court house Friday night was listened to by a good crowd, which seemed to enjoy his comicities and whimsicalities of politics. He talked on all sides of all questions and left the matter of his position as much in doubt as whether the snake that made the track was going South or coming back.

TEMPERANCE.—All the pupils of the Hill and the College and patrons of both are invited to be present in Mr. Grubbs' room at the public school house at 3:30 p. m. Thursday next to hear Miss Addie N. Fields in the interest of the W. C. T. U. for children. She also lectures at the Christian church free at 7 o'clock same evening.

SETTLED.—The suit of Miss Mollie Harmon against the Cincinnati Southern was settled outside of court for $250. Miss Harmon was driving along the pike parallel with the railroad and claims that the engineer through pure maliciousness blew his whistle so as to scare her horse which ran off, throwing her out and breaking her vehicle.

THE republican bosses have any amount of money to use in this county and if they put it in circulation, instead of keeping it for their own services, times will be better here, for awhile at least, no matter who is elected. Little roosters who hardly ever saw the color of money before are shaking it around now as if they owned the country.

KEEP your eye skinned to-day for illegal voters. The republicans have them and will use them if they can. If there is a doubt about the age or residence of any one who goes to the polls, see that his vote is not cast until he proves himself legally qualified for the right of suffrage. Negroes move very frequently and it is hard to guess at their age, so it is necessary to keep vigilant watch on them.

IT is going to take money to run the so-called free turnpikes. Listen at this from the Paris Kentuckian: "Bourbon fiscal court has purchased to be used on the turnpikes: One 12-ton double engine steam road roller; two Gates' rotary rock crushers, with 20 foot elevators and screens; four self-spreading carts. The cost of outfit will be $4,800." You had better think twice to-day, before you vote "Yes" on the question of making turnpikes free.

LAST circuit court hardly a man was acquitted. This time not one has been convicted so far of a penitentiary offense Friday P. P. Bishop, for shooting a Negro, was acquitted, Hannibal Givens, Negro, for breaking into and stealing goods from the store of Charles Wheeler at Hustonville, was also acquitted and Josh Dye, who was charged with stealing his uncle's G. A. R. uniform and as the latter alleges, was baptized in it, was also permitted to go free. The boy has been in jail for a long time and has suffered greatly from a wound in the leg that someone gave him last spring and that may have had something to do with his acquittal. Bill Bottoms for detaining Lillie Blake-man likewise went acquit.

SINCE the above was written we learn that Bishop was fined $50, but that is virtually an acquittal.

AFTER less than half an hour's session Saturday, the court adjourned till yesterday and dismissed the juries till to-morrow.

THERE is no use in tearing your shirt to-day. Go to the polls quietly, treat everybody civilly, cast your ballot for democracy and if any one tries to hinder you, spit him on the snout.

KILLING AT CRAB ORCHARD.—Frank Brooks shot and killed John Nevels in Edmiston's store at Crab Orchard at 5 o'clock Saturday, from the effects of which he died Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock. It seems that Brooks had a horse injured by a railroad train and he was trying to get the company to pay him for it. He accused Nevels, who was section boss, of having written to the company that Brooks continued to use the horse, which was not much hurt. Saturday afternoon Nevels went into Edmiston's store and was eating some oysters, when Brooks came in. Nevels asked him to join him, when Brooks ripped out: "Go to h—l, God d—n you," and Nevels is said to have responded rather jocularly, "Go there yourself." Brooks rushed out to the buggy, in which he and Jim Fish had come, and getting a pistol, went back to the store and striking Nevels over the head with it, knocked him to his knees, when he fired the shot that resulted in his death. Brooks must have fired several times, as Lige Bastin and Jim Fish were both shot slightly in the arms. He is himself slightly wounded in the arm and claims that Nevels shot him, but this is not believed. Immediately after the shooting Brooks skipped out and D. K. Farris, constable, and posse started in pursuit. They followed him all night and next day captured him in Rockcastle. Sheriff T. D. Newland and posse were also out in search of him. It was said that Brooks, who is reported to be a desperate man, would fight to the death before he would submit to capture, but when Constable Farris told him to surrender he did so without a murmur. Sheriff Newland brought the prisoner here Sunday night and yesterday his trial was continued till Thursday to await the action of the grand jury. He is now in jail and will not vote for McKinley to-day.

The following is the roll of honor of the public school, for the 2d month, ending Oct. 23d, 1896.
